Delegates From 40 Institutions Adopt Resolutions at Princeton.

CALL HALT ON SHIPS

Settlement of Far Eastern Question Also Strongly Urged.

, N. J., Oct, 26.—Delegates representing forty American universities and colleges met at Princeton to-day and adopted resolutions declaring that it was necessary for the future ace of the world that an immediate ttlement be made of the Far Eastern estion, that existing naval construction be suspended and future construction prevented, and urging the United tion prevented, and urging the United States to do all in its power to accomplish effective disarmament at the approaching Washington conference.

At to-night's meeting the delegates heard read telegrams from President Harding, Secretary of State Hughes and other national leaders indorsing the purpose of the conference and sending greetings to the delegates. The message from President Harding, addressed to John Grier Hibben, proudent of Princeton University, expressed great gratification that the colleges and universities of America are taking up the problem of disarmament. His message follows:

"My very cordial greetings to col accompliant and that we do hereby urge afform accompliant efforts shall not cease until some solution she found whereby the possibility of war may be minimized, and whereby at least a considerable portion of the vast amount of several money expanded by the nations for armament may be released for he development rather than the destruction of civilization and the human race. And be it further "Resolved, that it is the sense of the it tercollegiste conference that the Washington conference will not his ve attained its objectives with ut (1) a settlement of the Far Eastern duestion based upon principles which will made practicable the reduction of naval armaments; (2) an agreement to suspend a present programmes for aval construction and to undertake no author expansion; (3) an agreement to reduce substantially the present naval strength of the nations concerned."

ment. His message follows:
"My very cordial greetings to college conferees meeting at Princeton to discuss the problem incident to international agreement on the limitation of armament. Knowing as I do the sincerity of our American purpose, free from every phase of national selfishness, it is most gratifying to know the college thought of the Republic is being exercised helpfully to commit the sentiment of our country and the world to real achievements. A great service to this generation may prove yastly greater to generations yet to come."

The message from Secretary Hughes said:

The message from Secretary Hughes said:

"The State Department welcomes the aid of public spirited citizens in furthering the objects of the conference on limitation of armaments, and keenly desires to facilitate all who are engaged in the effort to give accurate information and to develop sound opinion."

The principal speakers at to-night's meeting were Vernon Kellogg of New York, right hand man of Herbert Hoover in European Relief; Franklin D'Oller, formerly National Commander of the American Legion; Major-Gen. John F. O'Ryan of the New York National Guard, and Dwight W. Morrow of J. P. Morgan & Co. They discussed various angles of the disarmament and related questions before a crowd which filled Alexander Hall, Princeton's largest auditorium.

Wilson's Opinion of Roosevelt:

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO Co.

"Yes, he's a great big boy. I was indeed charmed by his personality. There is a sweetness about him that is very compelling. You can't resist the man. I can easily understand why his followers are so fond of him."

-From Joseph P. Tumulty's "Woodrow Wilson as I Know Him," to be published serially in The New York Times, beginning Next Sunday.

Among the many controversies over Woodrow Wilson's public life, none has been argued more bitterly than the question. "Why weren't Colonel Roosevelt and General Wood permitted to go to France?" Mr. Tumulty tells the inside story for the first time. The President was inclined to let both men go overseas, but he would not override the General Staff or General Pershing.

Another subject of dispute has been the relationship of Mr. Wilson to his campaign manager, William F. McCombs.

The recently published book by the late Mr. McCombs was a bitter attack. Mr. Tumulty now tells what he knows about it. Nothing in American history and biography equal to the Tumulty story has appeared since Nicolay and Hay's Life of Lincoln.

but taste the difference

For the exclusive newspaper rights to Mr. Tumulty's work in the Middle Atlantic States, The New York Times has paid the highest price ever paid for such a publication.

In the first instalment, next Sunday, will appear the chapter on Colonel Roosevelt and General Wood, and the chapter on Mr. McCombs.
